Administrative Information

Immediate Source of Acquisition

Most of these financial materials were part of a collection acquired by Yale in 1922 from William H. Brown of West Haven, Conn. The collection, initially called the William H. Brown Statistical Library, numbered some 23,000 documents and covered the years 1890 to 1917. The collection was merged with similar materials already in the University Library and later expanded by gifts from Brown and others to become what is now known as the William H. Brown Collection.

Scope and Contents

This collection, compiled by William H. Brown, contains a variety of financial documents concerning copper and aluminum mining companies operating in the North American West. Examples of these documents include company correspondence, employee retirement plans, letters and notices to the stockholders, prospectuses, lists detailing the transfer of stock and cash, reports, deposit agreements, notices of redemption, statements, company descriptions and newsletters, informational pamphlets, profiles of company executives, reprints of newspaper articles, maps, employee retirement plans, subscription agreements, underwriting agreements, co-operative deposit agreements, balance sheets, trust agreements, mortgage indentures, and reorganization and readjustment plans and agreements. While all of these documents are represented in the collection, they are not all represented by each company.

Arrangement

Files are arranged first by region, i.e. Canada and the United States, and then alphabetically by company name.
