Processing Information

Collections are processed to a variety of levels, depending on the work necessary to make them usable, their perceived research value, the availability of staff, competing priorities, and whether or not further accruals are expected. The library attempts to provide a basic level of preservation and access for all collections, and does more extensive processing of higher priority collections as time and resources permit.

Original file titles have been retained and can be indentified by the use of quotation marks. Clarifying information has been supplied by the archivist alongside original file titles where useful and is enclosed within brackets.

Files have been retained in their original order and are described chronologically. Exceptions to this rule exist in Boxes 63-64, which have been partially separated from their original order to facilitate the placement of specified access restrictions. Please refer to the Conditions Governing Access note for details.

Biographical / Historical

Laura McPhee (1958-) and Virginia Beahan (1946-) are contemporary photographers whose professional collaborations have produced works in the art of landscape photography. McPhee grew up on a farm outside of Princeton, New Jersey. She graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in Art History from Princeton University in 1980 and a Master of Fine Arts in Photography from the Rhode Island School of Design in 1986. Beahan was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in English from Pennsylvania State University in 1968 and a Master of Fine Arts in Photography from the Tyler School of Art at Temple University in 1984.

McPhee and Beahan embarked on their first joint artistic endeavor in 1987 as they traveled the United States and the world to capture landscapes for No Ordinary Land, a monograph published by the Aperture Foundation in 1998. Following the publication of this work, McPhee and Beahan once again took to travelling across the United States in support of their next project, The Country Between Us, which would be exhibited in 2002.

Both McPhee and Beahan make frequent use of the vintage 8"x10" Deardorff view camera. Their works also display thematic similarities, often positioning landscapes as sites for complex interactions between the natural world and human culture.

McPhee and Beahan remain active in photography, each featuring their works in numerous publications and exhibitions since the 2000s. McPhee is currently a Professor of Photography at the Massachusetts College of Art and Design. Beahan is a Senior Lecturer in Studio Art at Dartmouth University.

Scope and Contents

The Laura McPhee and Virginia Beahan papers consist of photographic material and professional papers documenting the professional collaborations of Laura McPhee and Virginia Beahan in the realm of contemporary landscape photography with a focus on the late 1980s through the early 2000s.

Photographs are plentiful throughout the collection. Most are contained within Series I: Photographic Material. Some are present alongside manuscripts in Series II: Professional Papers. In totality, these photographs reveal a continuum of development and use, ranging from original slides and negatives to large format exhibition prints and reproductions in print publications. Traditional photographic methods predominate throughout the collection, such as the frequent use of a vintage 8"x10" Deardorf view camera to capture images. Dates of capture span from approximately 1987-2002.

Series II: Professional Papers consists of predominantly textual materials alongside some photographs and dates from approximately 1977-2013. Travels, business relationships, major projects, as well as commissions and features in print publications are extensively documented.

Much of the collection stems from the book project No Ordinary Land (1998), and, to a lesser extent, the exhibition project The Country Between Us (2002). No Ordinary Land led McPhee and Beahan to travel to New York, New Jersey, Hawaii, California, Nevada, Costa Rica, Italy, Iceland, and Sri Lanka. Their next major collaboration, The Country Between Us, features several states in the American South and West, including Georgia, Louisiana, Wyoming, Montana, Oregon, Mississippi, and Washington. Across projects and locations, McPhee and Beahan display a particular interest in the complex and reciprocal interactions between humans and nature. Such interactions include geologic and volcanic activity, expressions of religiosity in the landscape, evidence of human impact in remote locations, and the impacts of agrarian and industrial processes in the natural environment.

Arrangement

Organized into two series: I. Photographic Material, 1987-2002. II. Professional Papers, 1977-2013.

Collection Contents Series I: Photographic Material, 1987 - 2002

Black-and-white Prints

Series I contains photographic material created by Laura McPhee and Virginia Beahan in a variety of formats, including black-and-white prints, color prints, color transparencies, negatives, and contact prints.

Photographs in this series were predominantly captured for two projects: No Ordinary Land (Aperture, 1998) and The Country Between Us (2002). Many photographs are organized under geographic headings representing the diverse locations McPhee and Beahan traveled to over the course of creating these materials.

Series I is organized into four subseries: Black-and-white Prints, Color Prints, Color Transparencies, and Negatives and Contact Prints.

Series II: Professional Papers, 1977 - 2013

Series II comprises professional papers documenting the collaborative work between Laura McPhee and Virginia Beahan.

Ephemera and journals extensively document McPhee and Beahan's domestic and international travels. Files on magazine jobs and printed material illustrate the breadth of commissions and numerous uses of their works over time. Correspondence, business files, and a limited quantity of financial records offer insights into the decisions and relationships that underpin the careers of both McPhee and Beahan. Materials related to the production of No Ordinary Land show the transformation of a decade-long photography project into a published monograph.

Some photographs are present in this series alongside textual materials, especially as prints within the project files and as reproductions in printed material.

Series II is organized into four subseries: Correspondence, Business Files, and Ephemera; Financial Records; Printed Material; and Project Files.
