Sara Teasdale (1894-1932)

The American poet Sara Teasdale was born 8 August 1884 in Saint Louis, Missouri and home-schooled until she was nine. While living in the Midwest, she also traveled to Chicago, where she became part of the circle surrounding Poetry magazine and Harriet Monroe. Teasdale's first book, Sonnets to Duse and Other Poems, came out in 1907. Other works followed, including Helen of Troy and Other Poems (1911) and Rivers to the Sea (1915). After moving to New York City with her husband in 1916, she won the Columbia University Poetry Society Prize and the Poetry Society of America Prize for Love Songs (1917). She published three additional volumes of poetry during her lifetime, Flame and Shadow (1920), Dark of the Moon (1926), and Stars To-night (1930). Teasdale died 28 January 1933 in New York City and her final collection, Strange Victory, appeared posthumously that same year.
