Biographical / Historical

The Sheffield Scientific School, like the Graduate School, had its origins in the Department of Philosophy and the Arts established in 1847. It was given its name by the Yale Corporation in 1861 in recognition of the support of Joseph Earl Sheffield of New Haven who not only gave the first building but also provided funds for its equipment and development. Subsequently he made other gifts and finally bequeathed to a corporation, the Board of Trustees of the Sheffield Scientific School, a substantial endowment which was to be held and administered by the Trustees for the benefit of the natural, physical, and mathematical sciences in Yale University.

Sheffield was one of the first schools of higher education in the United States to devote its curriculum specifically to scientific training. The School played an important part in the evolution of American higher learning from the strict classical model of education to a curriculum which encompassed a liberal scientific education.

The faculty of the School conducted graduate as well as undergraduate courses in the sciences and engineering until 1919 when the former were discontinued. In 1932, engineering instruction was transferred to the newly organized Yale School of Engineering. In 1945 Sheffield resumed its original function of teaching at the graduate level. Under the general administration of the Graduate School, its faculty furnished instruction to graduate students in the sciences and mathematics who were M.A. and Ph.D. candidates. In 1956 the School's functions were absorbed by the Graduate School. The Directors of Sheffield Scientific School were: George Jarvis Brush, 1872-1898; Russell Henry Chittenden, 1898-1922; Charles Hyde Warren, 1922-1945; Edmund Ware Linnott, 1945-1956.

Series II: Faculty Minutes, circa 1852-1945

Series II, FACULTY MINUTES, 1860-1945, documents the Sheffield Scientific School's day-to-day academic and student related activities. The minutes contain, among other things, information on curriculum, catalogue descriptions, teaching schedules, examination results, minutes of the class instructors meetings, action taken with students in academic trouble and student discipline.

The Sheffield Scientific School faculty was originally called the Board of Instructors. Beginning on October 24, 1932, the Sheffield Scientific School faculty met jointly with the School of Engineering faculty. It should be noted that these minutes are not complete to 1956 and that gaps exist in the time span represented.

The materials in Series II are arranged chronologically.

The materials are open for research.

Series IV: Financial, Legal, and Property Records, 1846-1969

Series IV, FINANCIAL, LEGAL, AND PROPERTY RECORDS, is divided into eight sections:

- Historical Papers, 1846-1906
- Legal Matters re: Trustee Property, 1871-1927
- Building Construction and Maintenance, 1892-1929
- Legal Documents re: Funds, 1871-1923
- George St. John Sheffield Bequest, 1920-1937
- Amelia Daggett Sheffield Estate, 1936-1937
- The George Sheffield Fund, 1925-1952
- Financial Records and Reports, 1873-1964

Materials within each of these sections are arranged alphabetically and/or chronologically.

Historical Papers contains materials relating to the Sheffield Scientific School's early development: correspondence, the Articles of Incorporation of the Board of Trustees and bequest information among others. Because of their size and nature the historical papers were arbitrarily pulled together into a combined chronological and alphabetical subsection. Legal Matters re: Trustee Property contains deeds for land and buildings and agreements for building use by others. Building Construction and Maintenance contains contracts and related papers for construction, renovation and upkeep of the buildings. Legal Documents re: Funds contains materials relating to donations of land and money. Materials in the George St. John Sheffield Bequest section include the will, inventories, correspondence and financial and tax matters. The Amelia Daggett Sheffield Estate section contains materials regarding the estate settlement and distribution: the will, inventories, appraisals and release forms. The George Sheffield Fund material includes correspondence, financial papers and reports summarizing fund supported research from 1938-1952.

Financial Records and Reports is divided into six subsections:

- Securities Lists, 1882-1937
- Disbursements Reports, 1893-1902
- General Financial Papers, 1881-(1908?)
- Treasurer's Reports, 1890-1964
- External Auditor's Reports, 1931-1947
- Account Books, 1871-1969

These provide a fairly complete picture of the Sheffield Scientific School's financial development and status.

The materials are open for research.

Series V: Silliman Lectures

Endowed in 1901, the Silliman Memorial Lectureship funded an annual series of lectures "the general tendency of which may be such as will illustrate the presence and wisdom of God as manifested in the Natural and Moral World." After presentation, the guest expanded his material into book form to be published by the Sheffield Scientific School. Series V, SILLIMAN LECTURES 1906, 1911-1956, contains the administrative data compiled by the Silliman Lecture Committee, Materials include correspondence suggesting lecturers, invitations, acceptances, declinations, Corporation votes affirming lecturers, correspondence discussing lecture topics and material re : publication of the manuscripts. See Appendix 2 for a list of Silliman Lecturers.

The materials in Series V are arranged in three sections: Lecturers, Invited Lecturers Who Did Not Accept or Were Unable to Attend, and Suggested Lecturers. The materials within each section are arranged chronologically according to the academic year the Silliman Lecture was given.

The materials are open for research.

Series VI: Student Life, 1901-1949

Series VI, STUDENT LIFE, is organized into three sections:

Fraternities, 1919-1948

Student Council Records, 1910-1942

Young Men's Christian Association Records, 1907-1914

Material in the Fraternities section includes correspondence, prize information and discussion of discipline problems, The Student Council Records contains constitutions, correspondence, social business, honor code examinations and discipline. In 1932-1933, the Student Council began to serve both the Sheffield Scientific School and the newly created School of Engineering. The Young Men's Christian Association Records consists of the minutes of the Executive Committee and general membership meetings and financial business.

The materials within the Fraternities and Student Council sections are arranged alphabetically. The materials within the Young Men's Christian Association section are organized by form.
