Materials in the accession primarily document Rostow's professional correspondence, writings, and speeches. While topical files include materials on anti-trust, Détente, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA), and the Committee on the Present Danger, researchers may also find Rostow's correspondence useful in detailing his thoughts and shifting of perspectives on political issues. A small selection of teaching files, personal correspondence, primarily with his brother Walt Whitman Rostow, and photographs have been included.

The majority of original folder titles have been retained.

A photograph of the Yale Institute of International Affairs discussion group with Rostow, circa late 1930s or early 1940s, received in 2022 (as accession 2023-m-0004) was added to Box 22, folder 13.

Materials have been organized into the following groupings: Correspondence; Writings, reports and speeches; Subject files; and Photographs.

Correspondence

Materials include letters, postcards, and cables written to and by Eugene V. Rostow. Correspondents may be found across multiple folders.

Materials are arranged chronologically and alphabetically therein.
