Biographical / Historical

Champion Spalding Chase was born March 20, 1820, in Cornish, New Hampshire, the son of Clement and Olive (Spalding) Chase. He studied law in Buffalo, New York, and was admitted to the New York Bar in 1847. In that year, Chase moved to the Territory of Wisconsin. He married Mary Sophrina Butterfield, daughter of a prominent lawyer, in 1848, and in the same year opened a law office in Racine, where he remained until entering the Union Army in 1862. Chase also gave public lectures on phrenology and mesmerism.

Chase held a variety of public offices in the ante-bellum years. He served on the Board of Education of Racine from 1853-1857, including two years as president. In 1856, following the breakup of the Whig Party, which he had supported, Chase served as a delegate to the first National Republican Convention in Philadelphia. The same year, he was elected to a two-year term in the Wisconsin State Senate, where he spoke against the further extension of slavery. In 1859, Chase was appointed District Attorney of the First Judicial District.

In 1862, at the recommendation of his cousin, Salmon P. Chase, he was commissioned paymaster in the Union Army with the rank of major. Chase served in the army nearly four years, spending much of that time in the west and south-west. He witnessed the sieges of Knoxville, Mobile, and Vicksburg and for more than two years was stationed in New Orleans. Owing in part, at least, to the influence of William H. Seward, Chase was breveted Lieutenant Colonel by President Andrew Johnson. In January of 1866, he was honorably discharged and in the same year he moved to Omaha in the Territory of Nebraska. The following year, he became the first Attorney General of the new State of Nebraska.

In 1874, Chase was elected mayor of Omaha. He was re-elected in 1875, 1879, and 1883, serving a total of seven years in that office.

During his later years, Chase spent much of his time acting as delegate to various conventions called to consider current public issues. He died about 1898.

Scope and Contents

The Champion Spalding Chase Papers comprise a total of 16 boxes of papers and are divided into two series: CORRESPONDENCE, which makes up the bulk of the papers, and a small SPECIAL FILES series. CORRESPONDENCE is divided into three subsections: "Correspondence of C.S. Chase", "Correspondence of M.S. Chase," his wife, and "Correspondence of Others." The first two subsections comprise the bulk of the Correspondence and consist primarily of letters exchanged between Chase and his wife. This correspondence covers the years 1845-1881, with a particularly large number of letters from 1863 to 1864.

Although these letters are mostly of a personal nature, there is some discussion of Civil War matters, including a description of the surrender of Vicksburg. Also included in the "Correspondence of C.S. Chase" is a small number of letters from J.R. Doolittle, William H. Seward, and Fitz H. Warren, discussing the Whig Party's attempt to elect General Winfield Scott to the Presidency in 1852. There is, however, very little correspondence covering the years during which Chase was mayor of Omaha.

SPECIAL FILES contains a variety of items, the most important of which are Chase's military appointments and orders. Also included is a genealogy of the Chase family printed in 1894.

Arrangement

Arranged in two series: I. Correspondence. II. Special Files.

Collection Contents

Series I: Correspondence, 1837, 1840–1842 1844–1859, 1861–(1863–1864)–1871, 1874–1875, 1877–1881, 1899

6'3" - 15 boxes

CORRESPONDENCE contains three subsections. The first, "Correspondence of C.S. Chase", is divided into a large group of letters received by Chase, primarily from his wife, and a small group of letters written by Chase to others (except his wife). Letters received by Chase are arranged alphabetically by the name of the writer and chronologically within each folder. Letters written by Chase are arranged alphabetically by the name of the person to whom they are addressed.

The second subsection, "Correspondence of M.S. Chase", is divided between a large group of letters received by M.S. Chase, primarily from her husband, followed by a small group of letters written by M.S. Chase to others (except her husband). Letters received by M.S. Chase are arranged alphabetically by the name of the writer and chronologically within each folder; letters written by M.S. Chase are arranged alphabetically by the name of the person to whom they are addressed.

The third subsection, "Correspondence of Others", is arranged alphabetically by the name of the writer. It consists primarily of Butterfield family correspondence and also includes several letters endorsing C.S. Chase for various military and political positions.
