Biographical / Historical

Anson Phelps Stokes was born April 13, 1874, at New Brighton, Staten Island, New York. He shared a name with and was the son of Anson Phelps Stokes, a wealthy New York merchant and banker, and Helen Louisa Phelps Stokes.

After graduating from St. Paul's School in 1892, Stokes entered Yale University. A member of the class of 1896, he was chairman of the Yale Daily News as an undergraduate. Stokes received a B.A. degree from Yale in 1896 and a Bachelor of Divinity degree from the Episcopal Theological School in 1900.

In 1899, at the age of twenty-five, Stokes became Secretary of Yale University under President Arthur T. Hadley. Stokes held this position for twenty-two years, during which time he was largely responsible for the establishment of the Alumni Advisory Board and was instrumental in securing substantial gifts and endowments for the University. In 1900, Anson Phelps Stokes was ordained to the diaconate in the Protestant Episcopal Church. In addition to his duties at Yale, he served at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in New Haven from 1900 to 1918. During this period he was active on numerous New Haven and Yale committees. Yale-in-China, an organization to which he was to give many years of service as a member of the executive committee, was organized in 1902 at a meeting in his home. Stokes, along with Clifford Beers, was one of the founders of the National Committee on Mental Hygiene. A founder of the Lowell House Association and the Institute of Government Research, Stokes also served on the Committee on Japanese Peace Plans. (See Series III, "Yale, the Portsmouth Treaty, and Japan.")

In 1911 the Phelps-Stoke Fund, established by the will of Caroline Phelps Stokes, was incorporated. According to the wishes of Stokes's aunt, the fund would be used for "the erection and improvement of tenement house dwellings in the city of New York for the poor families of that city...and for the education of Negroes, both in Africa and the United States, North American Indians and needy and deserving white students, through industrial school the founding of scholarships, and the erection of endowment of school buildings and chapels" (Act of Incorporation of the Phelps-Stokes Fund Trustees, 1911). Anson Phelps Stokes was an active and devoted trustee of the Fund from its inception; in 1924, he became president of the board and served in this capacity until 1946.

Stokes resigned as Secretary of Yale University in 1921 at the close of the Hadley administration. He was considered for the presidency of Yale, which went instead to James Rowland Angell. In the interim period between his resignation from Yale and his acceptance of the position at Washington Cathedral, Stokes maintained his involvement in a variety of educational boards and commissions. In addition to his work on the board of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, Stokes had been a trustee of the General Education Board since May of 1912. At the request of the War Work Council of the Y.M.C.A., Stokes had made a study of the educational needs and opportunities of the American Expeditionary Forces. After publishing his findings in 1918 as Educational Plans for the American Army Abroad, he organized the Army Educational Commission. One of the organizers of the American University Union in Europe, he served as chairman of its board of trustees from 1917 to 1919. Because of his educational work in France, Stokes received the award of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor from the French government.

Stokes's involvement in international educational projects is further evidenced by his service on the administrative board of the Institute of International Education and the Central China College Board. As for educational institutions in the United States, Stokes was deeply concerned with the welfare of St. Paul's School, where he was a member of the board of trustees, and with Hampton and Tuskegee Institutes, in whose behalf he acted as the Chairman of the Special Gifts Committee of the Hampton-Tuskegee Endowment campaign.

Because of his clerical and educational affiliations, Anson Phelps Stokes was a logical choice to assist Charles Foster Kent of Yale University in organizing the National Council on Religion in Higher Education.

In 1924 Anson Phelps Stokes accepted the post of Canon of the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul in Washington, D.C., a position which he held until his retirement in 1939. In March, 1925, he was ordained a priest of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Stokes's skills as a fund-raiser were, as they had been at Yale, put to good use. His advice, tact, and organizational ability were responsible for securing special gifts and endowments for the National Cathedral building campaign.

During his years in Washington, Canon Stokes served on a host of committees, organizing some and chairing many. The unifying threads of this extensive committee work were three basic concerns in his life: education, social welfare, and religion.

A number of committees on which he served were directly related to his position as Canon, such as the various committees of the Chapter of Washington Cathedral, St. Monica's League, and the Diocesan Committee on Social Welfare. In addition, Stokes was the organizer and chairman of the Committee on Religious Life in the Nation's Capital.

While in Washington, Stokes was active in several charitable and welfare organizations: chairman of the Committee for the Relief of Russian Refugees in Constantinople, chairman of the board of trustees of St. Anna's Home for Aged Colored Women, president of the Family Service Association, and a member of the board of the Community Chest.

Stokes was committed to eliminating the exclusion of black people from the public and private social agencies of the nation's capital. To this end he organized the Interracial Committee of the Washington Federation of Churches, which co-ordinated the efforts of black and white churchmen in such concerns as a survey of Negro housing conditions, a study of discrimination in public theaters in Washington, and an exhibit of Negro art at the Smithsonian Institute. Stokes was also the chairman and organizer of the committee on integrating Negro churches into the Washington Federation of Churches.

One of the interests of the Phelps-Stokes Fund was low-cost housing for poor families in New York City. Anson Phelps Stokes expanded this concern into his Washington committee work, serving as president of the Washington Housing Association and as chairman of President Roosevelt's committee to plan the Alley Dwelling Authority. His efforts were directed towards the inclusion of housing for Negroes in federally funded projects. Stokes was concerned with another of the city's problems; he acted as chairman of the Citizen's Committee on Unemployment.

In the areas of education and research, Anson Phelps Stokes was a trustee of the Brookings Institution and the Booker Washington Institute of Liberia. He was chairman of the Committee on Leisure-Time Facilities for Government Employees. Stokes and the Phelps-Stokes Fund were involved in a project to compile an Encyclopedia of the Negro. W.E.B. DuBois and Guy B. Johnson were the editors; Stokes was chairman of a board of directors that included R.R. Moton, J.H. Dillard, and Benjamin Brawley. Only a preparatory volume appeared.

Due to the demands made upon his time by these extensive commitments, Stokes was forced to withdraw his participation from a number of boards. He resigned from the China Medical Board in April, 1930. In April of 1932, he resigned from the remaining Rockefeller boards of which he was a trustee: the International Education Board, the General Education Board, and the Rockefeller Foundation.

In 1939, Anson Phelps Stokes resigned from his position at Washington Cathedral to retire to Lenox, Massachusetts. There he devoted himself to two major research projects, which he had been pursuing in his spare time for many years: a history of universities and the history of church and state relations in the United States.

During the war years, Stokes was the organizer and chairman of the Committee on Negro Americans in the Defense Industry and the Committee on Africa, the War and Peace Aims. The latter committee published The Atlantic and Africa from an American Viewpoint in 1942.

In his years of retirement at Lenox, Stokes was involved in a number of conservationist efforts, among them the Stockbridge Bowl Association and the Pleasant Valley Bird and Wildflower Sanctuary in Berkshire County.

Anson Phelps Stokes's three-volume history, Church and State in the United States, was finally published by Harper and Brothers in 1950. In 1951 Stokes received the Churchman of the Year Award, followed by the Yale Medal in 1952. His book on the history of universities was never completed.

In the course of his long life, Stokes was a world traveler, beginning with a visit to the Holy Land as a young man in 1891. He traveled around the world after graduating from Yale in 1896 and toured the Far East in 1920. Nine years later, Stokes visited South America; during 1932 and 1933 he was Visiting Carnegie Lecturer to the Universities of the Union of South Africa. One result of the African tour was the Report of Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes on Education, Native Welfare, and Race Relations in East and South Africa, published by the Carnegie Corporation in 1934.

Anson Phelps Stokes was married to Carol Green Mitchell in December 1903. They had two sons, Anson Phelps Stokes and Isaac Newton Phelps Stokes, and one daughter, Olivia E. Phelps Stokes, who became Mrs. John D. Hatch. Anson Phelps Stokes died August 13, 1958, at the age of eighty-four.

For a list of published writings by Anson Phelps Stokes, see the bibliography compiled by Stokes (refer to his statement in the Description of the Papers). A list of writings on the Negro and race relations and a complete listing of committee and boards of which Stokes was a member follows this biographical sketch. Additional biographical information may be found in Series IV (box 207, folder 150), which contains "Anson Phelps Stokes's Services to the Phelps-Stokes Fund (1946)" and the Yale University News Bureau release on the event of Stokes's death.

Scope and Contents

The Anson Phelps Stokes Papers consist of correspondence, writings, subjects files, memorabilia, photographs, financial records, and family papers. The material has been divided into six series, the largest being the correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes, which comprises more than half of the papers in the collection.

Part I, Series I, Correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes, includes both the general and family correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes spanning almost eighty years from 1879 to 1958. The correspondence reflects the diverse interests of the Stokes family and Anson Phelps Stokes's participation on numerous boards and committees. (See the biographical sketch above.) As a result of these activities, Stokes became acquainted with educators, reformers, religious leaders, prominent businessmen, financiers, politicians, and diplomats. Much of the resultant correspondence concerns administrative matters; a much smaller portion is concerned with leading issues of the day.

There is significant correspondence with American educational leaders, both black and white. Because of his years at Yale and his influential work on a number of major educational boards, Stokes's correspondence reflects the early organizational efforts, the formulation of policy, and the implementation of significant projects in education.

Anson Phelps Stokes corresponded at length with fellow officials and trustees of the American University Union (Horatio S. Krans and J.W. Cunliffe), the Institute of International Education (Stephen P. Duggan and George H. Nettleton), the Rockefeller Foundation (George E. Vincent and Max Mason), and the General and International Education Boards (Trevor Arnett, Wallace Buttrick, W.W. Brierley, James H. Dillard, Abraham Flexner, Raymond B. Fosdick, and Wickliffe Rose). The American Council on Education is represented in the correspondence with Samuel P. Capen and Charles R. Mann, among others.

As President of the Phelps-Stokes Fund and a trustee of several Rockefeller Foundation boards, Anson Phelps Stokes corresponded with some leading figures in the larger foundations: Frederick P. Keppel, President of the Carnegie Corporation, Julius Rosenwald of the Rosenwald Fund, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

As one would expect, there is considerable correspondence related to Yale. (Stokes's official correspondence as Secretary of Yale University is in the Yale University Archives and does not form a part of this collection.) Even after leaving Yale, however, Anson Phelps Stokes maintained a strong interest in the University's well-being and frequently corresponded with administrators, alumni, and the faculty of Yale. Part I, Series I contains Stokes's correspondence with three Yale presidents: Arthur Twining Hadley, with whom Stokes worked for twenty-two years, James Rowland Angell, and Charles Seymour. Many Yale professors and officials are represented in the correspondence, among them Clive Day, Wilbur L. Cross, George Dudley Seymour, Andrew Keogh and George Parmly Day. Two other prominent individuals, known to Stokes through Yale affiliations, are William Howard Taft and Henry L. Stimson. One of the founders of Yale-in-China, Anson Phelps Stokes corresponded throughout the turbulent years of its history with its directors and staff, including Dr. Edward H. Hume, Dr. F.D. Yen, F. Wells Williams, Palmer Bevis and others.

For forty-five years, Stokes was an integral part of the leadership of the Phelps-Stokes Fund. Created by the will of Caroline Phelps Stokes, an aunt of Anson Phelps Stokes, and incorporated in 1911, the Fund was dedicated specifically to the improvement of the housing of the poor in New York City and to the education of Negroes, North American Indians, and deserving white students. Educational aid was to be primarily in the form of scholarships and endowments for school buildings and improvements. Stokes carried on a lengthy and detailed correspondence with the Fund's director, Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones, and with its secretary and treasurer, L. A. Roy and F. Louis Slade, about personalities, projects, and policies.

As a result of the Phelps-Stokes Fund's programs in support of Negro education in the United States and Africa, Stokes became acquainted with many prominent black educators. Among those with whom he corresponded are: Robert R. Moton, Monroe N. Work, and Frederick Douglass Patterson of Tuskegee Institute; William Anthony Aery, James E. Gregg, and Arthur Howe of Hampton Institute; Mordecai W. Johnson and Benjamin Brawley of Howard University; and Thomas E. Jones of Fisk University. Other black leaders who corresponded with Stokes are Walter White and James Weldon Johnson of the N.A.A.C.P., Carter Woodson of the Journal of Negro History, Mary McLeod Bethune, and W.E.B. DuBois.

Throughout his life, Anson Phelps Stokes received many pleas for financial support from both institutions and individuals. Although unable to comply with requests for financial aid in many instances, he frequently gave his time and advice in constructive ways. Requests for Stokes's opinions and suggestions are a salient feature of the correspondence.

Over the years, Stokes lent his support to refugee relief work in Europe, the Middle East, and Asia. He had a special interest in the relief program for Russian refugees in Constantinople, because it was directed for many years by his wife's sister, Anna V.S. Mitchell. Her correspondence with Stokes and that of many others involved in relief work appear in the general correspondence.

A prominent Episcopal priest, Stokes corresponded with Roman Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergymen, with members of the Federal Council of Churches, the Y.M.C.A., and the International Missionary Council, as well as with editors of religious publications. Among his correspondents in religious education were: Henry Sloane Coffin, William Adams Brown, and Reinhold Niebuhr of Union Theological Seminary.

As Canon of the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul in Washington, D.C., one of Stokes's major duties was to assist in the National Cathedral fund-raising campaign. A sizable portion of his correspondence from 1924 to 1939 deals with the organization of the fund-raising campaign on a nation-wide scale and with the solicitation of endowments and special gifts for the Cathedral.

Cathedral matters were by no means his sole concern during the Washington years, however. His committee work involved him in the problems of race relations, unemployment, low-cost housing, welfare, and public education. Stokes wrote to black leaders, to school superintendents, to welfare agencies, to cabinet members and congressmen presenting his views on political issues and pending legislation, and to Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt about the housing situation in Washington, D.C. Stokes kept some of this correspondence with his committee files apart from the general correspondence. It is located in Part I, Series III, Subjects File. But the bulk of his committee-related correspondence is in Part I, Series I, filed under the name of the individual correspondent.

One issue which evoked a strong response from Stokes was the controversy surrounding the Marian Anderson concert occasioned by the D.A.R.'s refusal in 1939 to allow the black concert artist to perform in Constitution Hall in Washington, D.C. Stokes contested the decision before the D.A.R. and published his arguments in a pamphlet entitled "Art and the Color Line." His correspondence on the subject is filed in Part I, Series I, An-Az, 1930 Jun 1 - 1939 Dec 31.

Correspondence related to Stokes's history of universities project and his book, Church and State in the United States, was kept, where possible, with the manuscripts and research materials. It now forms a part of PART I, SERIES II. Nevertheless, since Stokes worked for many years on these projects and discussed them with friends and colleagues, it is inevitable that a considerable number of letters pertaining to his research still remain in PART I, SERIES I. Correspondence with booksellers, especially about works on university history, is scattered throughout PART I, SERIES I under the name of the dealer or shop.

Some of the family members with whom Anson Phelps Stokes corresponded include his father, Anson Phelps Stokes, prominent New York banker, yachtsman, anti-imperialist, and a founder of the Reform Club; his aunt, Olivia Egleston Phelps Stokes, philanthropist; his sister, Helen Phelps Stokes, active in the National Civil Liberties Bureau and Socialist causes; his brothers, Isaac Newton Phelps Stokes, architect and art collector, James Graham Phelps Stokes, who married Rose Pastor Stokes, and Harold Phelps Stokes, a member of the staff of the New York Times; and his son, Anson Phelps Stokes, Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts.

PART I, SERIES II, JOURNALS, SPEECHES, WRITINGS, AND RESEARCH, consists of the journals, sermons, public addresses, writings, and research materials of Anson Phelps Stokes. The writings, which include letters to the editor, articles, reviews and introductions, present Stokes's views on race relations, educational policy and public issues. There is a manuscript of the final draft of Stokes's book, Memorials of Eminent Yale Men. Stokes's work on the history of universities was never published. There is a typed copy of that portion of the study which he completed, the history of universities from the Renaissance to the nineteenth century. Materials related to Church and State in the United States, a three-volume work published in 1950, constitute a large part of PART I, SERIES II. In addition to a typed copy of the final draft, there are research materials, correspondence with the publishers and others about the book, and reviews.

Part I, Series III, Subjects File, complements the general correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes. Grouped by topic, the papers represent major areas of interest and concern which are in evidence throughout his correspondence. The subjects are:

- African tour, 1932-1933
- The Brookings Institution
- General and International Education Boards
- The Phelps-Stokes Fund
- Refugee relief
- Reorganization of the Federal Judiciary
- St. Paul's School
- Washington Cathedral
- Washington, D.C., Committees
- Yale-in-China
- Yale-New Haven History
- Yale, the Portsmouth Treaty, and Japan

For the most part, the papers in the "Subjects File" are memoranda, minutes, and reports, with some of Stokes's official correspondence. They are files maintained for his personal use and do not represent complete, official records of the organizations involved.

The "Phelps-Stokes Fund" section of Part I, Series III consists of miscellaneous papers, including correspondence, related to such specific projects and concerns as the Commission to East Africa, the Smuts Conference, the Encyclopedia of the Negro, the Booker Washington Institute of Liberia, and the Committee on Africa, the War, and Peace Aims.

The "Washington, D.C., Committees" files contain a notable amount of Stokes's official correspondence with prominent Washington citizens, congressmen and senators. Speaking on behalf of such organizations as the Washington Committee on Unemployment, the Washington Housing Committee, and the Interracial Committee of the Washington Federation of Churches, Anson Phelps Stokes sought to influence public opinion in favor of his committees' proposals and recommendations on specific legislation and federal programs. This material complements the correspondence in PART I, SERIES I with such individuals as John Ihlder of the Alley Dwelling Authority, Helen Duey Hoffman of the Washington Housing Association, Emmett J. Scott of Howard University and the Interracial Committee, and others.

In addition to correspondence, memoranda, minutes and reports, the "Yale-in-China" material in Part I, Series III includes photographs of faculty, students, and Yale facilities.

The sub-section on "Yale-New Haven History" contains memorabilia of town and gown, including eighteenth and nineteenth century records and letters. Anson Phelps Stokes's personal contributions include an evaluation of President Hadley's administration and a history of the Pierpont-Stokes house. (Photographs of the interior and exterior of the house may be found in Part I, Oversize Materials) There is also correspondence and copies of miscellaneous documents pertaining to the Lowell House Settlement, which Stokes described in a 1946 article entitled, "The Founding and Early Years of Lowell House."

The final sub-section contains what is probably the most significant original material in the series: manuscripts pertaining to Yale's role in the drafting of the Portsmouth Treaty. Included is correspondence between Anson Phelps Stokes and Barnabas Sakai, a member of the diplomatic mission of Baron Kaneko to the United States in 1904. There is a copy of "Yale, the Portsmouth Treaty, and Japan," a pamphlet presenting and interpreting the available material on the subject, written by Harold Phelps Stokes, brother of Anson and a member of the New York Times editorial staff.

Part I, Series IV of the Anson Phelps Stokes Papers is comprised of memorabilia and photos. The photographs include individual and group photos of Anson Phelps Stokes from childhood to the last years of his life. Among these are photos of his wife, family, friends, and associates. Memorabilia consists primarily of scrapbook materials, gathered over the years by Stokes, which provide biographical information. In addition to memorabilia of Stokes's own life, there are genealogical studies, family records, charts and some correspondence pertaining to the history of the Stokes family. One part of the memorabilia relates to Anson Phelps Stokes's grandparents, parents, aunts, and uncles. There are a very limited number of items on the Lindley family. One of them is the biography of Daniel Lindley, the maternal grandfather of Stokes's wife, Carol Mitchell Phelps Stokes.

Part I, Series V, Financial and Property Records, contains bills, receipts, cancelled checks, leases, tax records, and similar items belonging to Anson Phelps Stokes, as well as papers relating to Stokes family finances. While a small amount of correspondence is included here, almost all of the financial correspondence is filed in Part I, Series I, under the name of the bank or investment company involved, and, in some cases, under the name of the individual representative.

Part I, Series VI, Stokes Family Papers, contains three boxes of Phelps Stokes correspondence, dating from 1834 to 1960, including interesting information about the history of the Stokes family. Following this correspondence, are letters to Olivia and Caroline Phelps Stokes, aunts of Anson Phelps Stokes. These letters reflect the philanthropic interests of the Stokes sisters in the Hampton and Tuskegee Institutes, Barnard College, the town of Ansonia, Connecticut, the Columbia University chapel, the Bible Institute, the Constitution Island Association, and the Voorhees Industrial School, to name a few. There are thirty-four letters from Booker T. Washington, as well as letters from his wife and daughter.

In addition, there are accounts of the travels in India and the Middle East by Anson Phelps Stokes's sons, Anson and Newton. The high point of their journey was an interview with Gandhi in 1930.

Part I, Series VI also contains some papers of Helen Phelps Stokes, a member of the Socialist Party and treasurer of the National Civil Liberties Bureau. One portion of the papers is comprised of minutes, memoranda, reports and publications of the National Civil Liberties Bureau and the American Civil Liberties Union, from 1917 through 1923. There is also some correspondence including letters from Roger Baldwin, Albert DeSilver, Rose Pastor Stokes and Norman Thomas.

Manuscripts and Archives, Yale University Library, contain the following papers related to this collection: Records of the Secretary of Yale University, 1899-1921 (RU 49); Files of Yale-in-China (including, but not limited to, RU 232, RU 233, and RU 234); The Anson Phelps Stokes Autograph Collection (MS 402); The Harold Phelps Stokes Papers (MS 645); The Rose Pastor Stokes Papers (MS 573).

The addition to the Anson Phelps Stokes Family Papers consists of correspondence, writings, subject files, memorabilia, photographs, financial records and family papers.

This group of papers represents a portion of the Anson Phelps Stokes papers which was not discovered until several years after the bulk of the collection had been processed. The addition is complementary, but fragmentary in nature. While it covers the same years as the major portion, it does not represent a simple extension of the earlier portion of the papers. For example, significant additional information can be found in the correspondence of Barnabas Sakai, and there is a complete typescript of Stokes's book, A History of Universities, but in other instances, such as under the subject heading, Washington Cathedral, the body of additional material is small and unimportant.

Part II, Series I, Section C (General Correspondence 1950-1957 M-Z) is the part of the addition which is most clearly a fragment of the main body of the papers. Correspondence for the years 1950-1957 A-L is contained in the portion of the papers which was previously processed, while the bulk of the correspondence 1950-1957 M-Z forms a part of the addition. In order to have a complete view of the collection both the main body of papers and the addition will have to be consulted. The organization of the previously processed portion of the papers has been used as a model for the addition, and series and section divisions have been retained wherever applicable. The addition is arranged as follows:

I. Correspondence

- A. General Correspondence 1893-1923
- B. Letterpress Books 1900-1921
- C. General Correspondence 1950-1957, M-Z
- D. Family Correspondence 1897-1957

II. Journals, Speeches, Writings, and Research Materials

- A. Journals and Memoranda
- B. Articles, Addresses and Public Statements
- C. Reviews and Introductions
- D. Books

III. Subject Files

- A. American Academy in Rome
- B. American University Union in Europe
- C. General Board of Religious Education
- D. General and International Education Boards
- E. Phelps Stokes Corporation
- F. Phelps Stokes Estates
- G. Phelps-Stokes Fund
- H. Russian Refugee Relief
- I. St. Paul's School
- J. Washington Cathedral
- K. Yale-in-China

IV. Memorabilia and Photographs

V. Financial and Property Records

VI. Stokes Family Papers

Part II, Series I, Correspondence, is the largest single series, comprising more than two thirds of the addition. The series includes both general and family correspondence from 1893 to 1957, but the great majority of the material falls into two time periods, 1896 to 1923 and 1950 to 1957.

Anson Phelps Stokes was, as were several members of the Stokes family, a public figure throughout his life. As a result of his activities, he became acquainted with educators, reformers, religious leaders, business-men, financiers, politicians and diplomats. Throughout the addition the researcher will find correspondence with public figures which discusses the prominent issues of the day. Examples of this type of correspondence are Irving Fisher's letters on the Prohibition question, George Wharton Pepper's letter on the League of Nations and comments made by Henry White on the Paris Peace Conference (1920 Jan 10).

Education and religion, however, were the major concerns of Stokes's life, and a large portion of the correspondence is with educational and religious leaders. He corresponded with fellow officials of the American University Union (Horatio S. Krans and J. W. Cunliffe) and the General and International Education Boards (Wallace Butterick, Abraham Flexner, Raymond B. Fosdick and Wickliffe Rose), as well as with ministers, bishops and officials of the General Board of Religious Education. There is extensive correspondence with missionaries who were affiliated with the Young Men's Christian Association (Y.M.C.A.), and the Yale Foreign Mission or Yale-in-China. While this correspondence deals almost entirely with organizational and administrative matters, there is also some discussion of local events, such as the Chinese Civil War in letters from Fletcher S. Brockton and Sherwood Eddy. Other missionaries with whom Stokes corresponded include John R. Mott and Sidney L. Gulick.

Stokes also corresponded with Francis Burton Harrison, governor-general of the Philippine Islands, who in a letter dated (1914 Apr 30) discusses United States administration of the Philippine Islands and criticism of his policies as governor. Another item dealing with the Philippine Islands is a copy of a letter (1900 Jan 10) from Carson H. Bell to his mother which describes the death of Ward Cheney, a close friend of Stokes, in a guerrilla action taking place in the islands. Aside from Stokes's friendship with Cheney, the letter is interesting for its detailed description of the type of fighting which was taking place in the Philippines at that time.

The correspondence with Barnabas Sakai is one of the more important elements of the collection. During the Russo-Japanese War (1904-1905) he acted as an aid to Baron Keneko, a Japanese diplomat stationed in the United States, and his letters contain information about the events leading to the signing of the Portsmouth Treaty.

A large portion of the correspondence deals with Yale University and Yale-related matters, (Stokes's official correspondence as Secretary of Yale University is in the Yale University Archives and does not form a part of this collection.) Part II, Series I contains correspondence with three Yale presidents: Arthur Twining Hadley, James Roland Angell and A. Whitney Griswold. Many Yale professors are also represented in the addition, including Clive Day, Wilbur L. Cross, George Parmly Day, George D. Seymour, and Andrew Keogh. The correspondence with William Howard Taft, another of Stokes's Yale acquaintances, is primarily concerned with education and the League to Enforce Peace, and is limited to the years prior to and following his term as President of the United States. There are several letters from his secretary, Charles D. Norton, during the presidential years, but they are not very substantial. However, there is a copy of a letter from Taft to Woodrow Wilson (1915 May 10) offering advice during the Lusitania incident.

One of the founders of Yale-in-China, Stokes corresponded with its directors and staff including Dr. Edward H. Hume, Dr. F. O. Yen, Frederick Wells Williams and others. In Part II, Series I, Section C, there is also an extensive discussion of Yale history in the correspondence with George W. Pierson.

As president of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, Stokes also corresponded with many prominent black educators including Booker T. Washington, W. E. B. DuBois, W. S. Scarborough, Robert R. Moton and Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones.

Stokes took an active part in refugee relief work. He gave special attention to the Russian refugees in Constantinople because the relief program was directed for a time by his wife's sister, Anna V. S. Mitchell. Her correspondence appears in both Part II, Series I and Series III, Section H, Russian Refugee Relief.

Part II, Series I, Section C, General Correspondence 1950-1957 M-Z, contains the correspondence of Clarence Blair Mitchell which includes an interesting discussion of the issue of McCarthyism. Mitchell, who was Stokes's brother-in-law, was a firm supporter of Senator McCarthy and made his feelings known to Stokes in this series of letters. Stokes did not agree with Mitchell and in his replies tried to modify Mitchell's point of view. In one letter, for example, Mitchell accused Henry Van Dusen of the Union Theological Seminary of having Communist connections, and Stokes in turn defended him. There is also correspondence with Van Dusen on the subject.

Also in this section, the researcher will find correspondence with Alan Paton concerning the "apartheid" policies of the South African Government and several letters from Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, of the Tolstoy Foundation, which discuss the plight of a Russian emigre.

The family correspondence is very fragmentary. The only substantial correspondence is with his father, Anson Phelps Stokes; his mother, Helen Louisa Phelps Stokes; and his three brothers Isaac Newton Phelps Stokes, James Graham Phelps Stokes and Harold Phelps Stokes.

PART II, SERIES II, JOURNALS, SPEECHES, WRITINGS, AND RESEARCH MATERIALS, consists of the journals, sermons, addresses, writings and research materials of Anson Phelps Stokes. Collectively they present Stokes's religious, political and educational views. Two items found in this addition to the papers which were missing from the main portion are the complete typescript of his unpublished book, A History of Universities, and "Family Incidents and Memories", an autobiographical memoir. There are also some materials relating to his books, Memorials of Eminent Yale Men and Church and State in the United States. In the case of Church and State in the United States much of the material consists of photographs and illustrations. They have been filed in this series, rather than in PART II, SERIES IV, because of their relationship to the book.

Part II, Series III, Subject Files, complements the general correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes. Grouped by topic, the papers represent major areas of interest and concern which are in evidence through the correspondence. The subjects are:

- American Academy in Rome
- American University Union in Europe
- General Board of Religious Education
- Phelps Stokes Corporation
- Phelps Stokes Estates
- Phelps-Stokes Fund
- Russian Refugee Relief
- St. Paul's School
- Washington Cathedral
- Yale-in-China

For the most part, the papers in the subject files are memoranda, minutes and reports with some of Stokes's official correspondence. They are files maintained for his personal use and do not represent complete, official records of the organizations involved.

Part II, Series IV, Memorabilia and Photographs, consists of photograph albums, individual photographs and scrapbook material. The two photograph albums appear to be related to Stokes's trip around the world in 1896. The scrap-book material and additional miscellaneous items provide some biographical information.

Part II, Series V, Financial and Property Records, contains cancelled checks, bank statements, and checkbooks.

PART II, SERIES VI, STOKES FAMILY PAPERS, consists of one folder of Stokes family correspondence, a book, Cruising the Caribbean With a Camera, by Anson Phelps Stokes (father of APS), and some papers relating to the Americana collection of Anson Phelps Stokes, (father of APS)

Arrangement

The materials are arranged in two parts and three additions.

Part I is arranged in six series and oversize materials: I. Correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes, 1892-1958. II. Journals, Speeches, Writings, and Research Materials, 1890-1958. III. Subjects Files, 1767-1958. IV. Memorabilia and Photos, 1761-1958. V. Financial and Property Records, 1804-1958. VI. Stokes Family Papers, 1834-1960.

Part II is arranged in six series: I. Correspondence, 1893-1957. II. Journals, Speeches, Writings and Research Materials, 1896-1954. III. Subject files, 1911-1954. IV. Memorabilia and Photographs, 1896-1954. V. Financial and Property Records, 1923-1955. VI. Stokes Family Papers, 1900-1921.

Collection Contents

PART I. I: Correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes, 1879-(1892-1958)

57.5 linear feet (139 boxes)

Part I, Series I is divided into the "General Correspondence" and the "Family Correspondence" of Anson Phelps Stokes. Letters to and from Anson Phelps Stokes are filed together. Since Stokes retained carbon copies of most of his letters in his files, the full correspondence is represented.

The 129 boxes of "General Correspondence" have been arranged into four chronological sub-sections: 1892-1921, 1922-1930 May 31, 1930 Jun 1 - 1939 Dec 31, 1940 Jan 1 - 1958 Aug 13.

There is one folder of undated correspondence which appears at the end of the general correspondence.

Within each chronological sub-section, correspondence is arranged alphabetically by the correspondent's last name. For the most part, correspondents are grouped together under general alphabetical headings, such as "An - Az, 1922-1923." The correspondence of some individuals has been placed in separate folders and filed at the end of the general folders. Thus, James Rowland Angell's correspondence with Stokes for the period from 1922 to 1930 May 31 appears after the general folders, "An - Az," for that period.

To aid the researcher, a select list of correspondents has been prepared for each of the chronological sub-sections. Where applicable, the name of an organization or institution is given along with the correspondent's name. In most instances, Stokes filed letters under the name of the individual rather than the name of the organization or institution. These lists of correspondents appear in the register as Appendix I.

Letters of congratulation or tribute relating to special events in the life of Anson Phelps Stokes are filed at the end of the appropriate chronological sub-section. The special events are:

- 1) Engagement and wedding, 1903
- 2) Resignation as Secretary of Yale University, 1921
- 3) Resignation as Canon of Washington Cathedral, 1939
- 4) Resignation as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, 1946
- 5) Churchman of the Year Award, 1951
- 6) Golden Wedding Anniversary, 1953
- 7) Eightieth birthday, 1954

Sympathy letters received by the Stokes family upon the death of Anson Phelps Stokes are filed at the end of the general correspondence.

"Family Correspondence" consists of Anson Phelps Stokes's correspondence with Stokes family members and is arranged alphabetically by the family member's name. Each individual's correspondence with Anson Phelps Stokes is arranged chronologically. The family members have been limited to Stokes's wife and children, his parents, his paternal aunts and uncles and their families, and his eight brothers and sisters and their families. His wife's relatives remain in the general correspondence, as do a number of second and third cousins.

Since many relatives and friends wrote to Anson and Carol Mitchell Phelps Stokes simultaneously, the bulk of her correspondence is filed with that of her husband. Letters of Carol Mitchell Phelps Stokes filed neither in the family nor the general correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes have been filed in Part I, Series VI.

Note: In certain instances, Stokes maintained a file of letters directly related to one of his publications. This correspondence is located with his writings in Part I, Series II. For example, letters from friends and colleagues commenting on "The Two Fronts of Freedom" are filed with a printed copy of the speech in Part I, Series II, under "Articles, Addresses, and Public Statements." Similarly, Stokes's file of research correspondence for Church and State in the United States is with the manuscript of the book in Part I, Series II.

Note: Correspondence of the Phelps Stokes family which is neither to nor from Anson Phelps Stokes has not been included in Part I, Series I. It is filed in Part I, Series VI.

PART I. II: Journals, Speeches, Writings, and Research Materials, 1890-1958*13.75 linear feet (35 boxes)*

This series is divided into four chronologically arranged sections: Journals and Memoranda, Articles, Addresses, and Public Statements, Reviews and Introductions, and Books.

"Journals and Memoranda" consists of travel journals, diaries, memoranda and notes on a variety of subjects, and bibliographies of Anson Phelps Stokes's published works compiled by Stokes himself.

The second section, "Articles, Addresses, and Public Statements," contains letters to the editor, articles, speeches, sermons, prayers, and memorial statements, in print as well as in outline or draft form. There is also correspondence (assembled by Stokes) commenting on certain of his articles.

"Reviews and Introductions" consists of evaluations by Stokes of publications of others. Reviews of Stokes's books are filed in the fourth section of this series under the title of the book.

The final section of Part I, Series II, "Books," consists of manuscripts of Stokes's books together with a variety of materials directly related to the books or to their publication. These materials include correspondence with publishers and colleagues, copyright inquiries, research material and reviews. The most significant of Stokes's books is Church and State in the United States (1950), which has the greatest concentration of material. Other published works are Memorials of Eminent Yale Men (1914), What Jesus Christ Thought of Himself (1916), and Educational Plans for the American Army Abroad (1918). Stokes's work on the history of universities was never published. A table of contents and a typescript of the parts of the project which he completed are included in Part I, Series II.

Note: The correspondence that appears in this series was assembled by Stokes and is not complete. Many letters relating, often only in part, to Stokes's writings remain in the General and Family Correspondence and have not been cross-referenced.

PART I. IV: Memorabilia and Photos, 1761-(1874-1958)7 linear feet (17 boxes)

Part I, Series IV, Memorabilia and Photos, consists of bound and unbound scrapbook material gathered by Anson Phelps Stokes, as well as photographs of family, friends, and Stokes himself.

The unbound memorabilia is presented first. The initial segment, "Ancestors of Anson Phelps Stokes," contains genealogical studies, family records, charts and some correspondence relating to the New England fore bearers of the Stokes family. The second segment, "Family History of Carol Mitchell Phelps Stokes," includes material on the Lindley family, the maternal ancestors of Stokes' wife, Carol Mitchell Phelps Stokes. The third segment, "Parents and Older Relatives," contains memorabilia of Anson Phelps Stokes's grandparents, parents, aunts, and uncles. The material is arranged by family name or family member, then filed chronologically. After these opening segments, memorabilia of the life of Anson Phelps Stokes begins. Items have been assigned to the appropriate folder by year and the folders placed in chronological order. Undated items appear at the end of the dated material.

Following the unbound material are five bound scrapbooks of memorabilia, dating from 1905 to 1942.

Completing Series IV is a box of individual, family and group photographs of Anson Phelps Stokes. Also included are a few photos taken by Stokes himself.

Documents and photographs too large to be included in Series IV have been placed in Folios 1 and 2 (Oversize Materials, Box 226 and 227) at the end of the collection.

PART I. V: Financial and Property Records, 1804-(1910-1958)3.5 linear feet (9 boxes)

The financial and property records are divided into four sub-sections: Financial and Property Records of Anson Phelps Stokes, Settlements of Family Estates, Phelps Stokes Estates, and Phelps Stokes Corporation.

"Financial and Property Records" are arranged alphabetically by folder title. In "Settlements of Family Estates," material is arranged by the name of the deceased family member. The order of the names is chronological according to the year of birth. "Phelps Stokes Estates" and "Phelps Stokes Corporation" refer to the corporate form of the family's investments and securities. These sub-sections consist of Anson Phelps Stokes's copies of the corporation's reports and records, arranged chronologically. (Note: Phelps Stokes Estates, Inc., which later became the Phelps Stokes Corporation, should not be confused with the Phelps-Stokes Fund, established by the will of Caroline Phelps Stokes to support educational and housing projects in Africa and in the United States.)

PART II. I: Correspondence, 1893-1957 (primarily 1896-1923, 1950-1957)26 linear feet (62 boxes)

Part II, Series I, Correspondence, is divided into four sections:

- A. General Correspondence, 1893-1923
- B. Letterpress Books, 1900-1921
- C. General Correspondence, 1950-1957
- D. Family Correspondence, 1897-1957

Section A is comprised almost entirely of incoming letters between the years 1893 and 1923. There are some carbons of outgoing letters, but these are limited to periods of time when Stokes was absent from his office. The letters are arranged alphabetically by the correspondent's last name in general letter folders and then chronologically within each folder. The correspondence of certain individuals and organizations has been placed in separate folders and filed at the end of the general letter folders. Letters which could be dated within a given year, but not a specific day, are filed at the end of the folder for that year. Those which could be dated within a month are filed at the end of that month.

Section B consists of letterpress books containing the carbon copies of Stokes's outgoing letters from 1900 to 1921. These years represent his tenure as Secretary of Yale University and correspond roughly with the dates of the incoming letters in the first section. The books are arranged in chronological order and each volume is prefaced by a partial alphabetical index.

Section C is arranged in the same manner as Section A. The notable differences are that incoming and outgoing correspondence is inter-filed and the correspondence A-L is filed in the portion of the collection which was processed prior to the discovery of the material in this addition. The final folder in this section contains letters of sympathy received on the death of Anson Phelps Stokes.

Section D consists of the correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes with Stokes family members and is arranged alphabetically by the name of the family member. Each individual's correspondence with Stokes is arranged chronologically. The family members are limited to Stokes's wife and children, his parents, his paternal aunts and uncles and their families, and his brothers and sisters and their families. His wife's relatives remain in the general correspondence, as do a number of second and third cousins.

Since many relatives and friends wrote to Anson and Caroline Mitchell Phelps Stokes simultaneously, her correspondence is filed with that of her husband.

The final folder in the section contains letters from individuals who have indicated themselves to be family members, but could not be identified.

PART II. II: Journals, Speeches, Writings, and Research Materials, 1896-1954, (primarily 1896-1927, 1951-1954)

4 linear feet (10 boxes)

Part II, Series II, Journals, Speeches, Writings, and Research Materials, is divided into four chronologically arranged sections:

- A. Journals and Memoranda
- B. Articles, Addresses and Public Statements
- C. Reviews and Introductions
- D. Books

Section A consists of travel and family journals and two memoranda concerning Yale.

Section B contains articles, speeches, prayers, sermons, lectures and a course outline notebook, in manuscript as well as outline form. There is also a small amount of correspondence, (assembled by Stokes), in regard to his article "The Question of Preparedness".

Section C consists of one folder of book reviews and introductions to books other than his own.

Section D consists of manuscript and research materials. There is one folder containing excerpted comments and some reviews of Memorials of Eminent Yale Men. The typescript of Stokes's unpublished A History of Universities makes up the bulk of the section. In addition there are fragments of the typescript of Church and State in the United States as well as correspondence, photographs, illustrations and research materials relating to that book.

NOTE: The correspondence that appears in this series was assembled by Stokes and is not complete. Many letters relating, often only in part, to Stokes writings remain in the general and family correspondence and have not been cross-referenced.

PART II. III: Subject Files, 1911-1954, (primarily 1911-1929, 1951-1954)6 linear feet (15 boxes)

In Part II, Series III the material is grouped by subject: an institution, organization or project in which Stokes was involved. The eleven subjects in alphabetical order are:

- A. American Academy in Rome
- B. American University Union in Europe
- C. General Board of Religious Education
- D. General and International Education Boards
- E. Phelps Stokes Corporation
- F. Phelps Stokes Estates
- G. Phelps-Stokes Fund
- H. Russian Refugee Relief
- I. St. Paul's School
- J. Washington Cathedral
- K. Yale-in-China

Within a subject, items may be filed in chronological order or arranged by type of material.

NOTE: The Phelps Stokes Estates later became the Phelps Stokes Corporation and both groups of material deal with family properties and investments. The Phelps-Stokes Fund is completely separate and was established by the will of Caroline Phelps Stokes to support educational and housing projects in the United States and Africa.

Accession 1986-M-099: Additional material, 1940-1945

This accession consists of correspondence and research materials, chiefly notes and drafts, relating to Anson Phelps Stokes's book, Church and State. Correspondence is between Ellen Ahern, a research archivist at the New York Public Library, and Stokes; some letters are written by Stokes's secretary, Rosalie A. Malone. Ahern answered Stokes's occasional research queries; located and made typed transcripts of many quotations to which he wanted to refer in his text; assisted in preparing footnotes; and typed portions of his manuscript.

Appendix I: Select List of Correspondents for Part I

Key to Series I, "Correspondence of Anson Phelps Stokes." While the correspondence of certain major individuals appears under their name, most of the correspondence is in folders with a general alphabetical designation only. This list gives the researcher an idea of whose correspondence might appear, for example, in a listing such as "Ca-Cg, 1930 Jan 1 - 1939 Dec 31."

In addition, the organization or institution which a given individual represents is indicated alongside the name. This can be of assistance in two ways. First, an individual name which does happen to appear in the folder listings, such as Thomas Jesse Jones, may be identified by means of the list as the director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund. Second, a researcher looking for the correspondence of a given organization or project can use this information in Appendix I to discover which correspondents are of interest.

A note of caution should be added here on the limitations of the list. No attempt was made to indicate every person who corresponded with Anson Phelps Stokes. Some individuals who do appear on the list have not been identified as to organization, institution, or position, for a variety of reasons: they did not represent an institution, they had retired, the name of their employer was not deemed significant, their name needed no identification to the general public, and so forth. Individuals on the list are identified according to the capacity in which they corresponded with Anson Phelps Stokes. George Wharton Pepper, for a time U.S. Senator from Pennsylvania, is identified with Washington Cathedral, since his correspondence with Anson Phelps Stokes is oriented towards his role as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Cathedral rather than towards his political activities.

In general, Stokes's basic filing system was maintained. In some cases, correspondence was filed under the name of the organization or institution as well as under the names of individuals. This was usually material of a general nature newsletters, bulletins, etc. which did not emanate from major officials or their offices. For this reason, the names of organizations occasionally appear on the list in addition to the names of officials within the organizations.
