SUMMARY: The Overbrook Press Records contain correspondence, office files, and production files documenting the operations and publications of the Overbrook Press. The records also hold small group of Frank Altschul's personal papers, a collection of printed material, mostly ephemera, published by peer presses, professional and private associations and clubs, and a group of type specimens from American and European typefounders. The Production Files form the most significant part of the records, and contain original and carbon typescripts, manuscripts, printed sources or copies of source text, designs and layout pages, dummies, proofs, and galleys; some files hold correspondence, published reviews, and final copies of the publications as well as original artwork, silkscreen stencils, bookbinding stamps, and a collection of paper samples. Correspondents include various authors and illustrators including T. M. Cleland, W. A. Dwiggins, William Einstein, Jean Hugo, Bruce Rogers, and Rudolph Ruzicka. Also present are the photoengravings used for printing illustrations and decorations in press publications. The latest item in the collection is an Overbrook Press tribute broadside which was printed by Altschul's nephew Charles Altschul at Yale University in 1979.

Associated Materials

The Rare Book and Manuscript Library at Columbia University Library holds the remainder of the Overbrook Press Records (MS 0959) as well as the Frank Altschul Papers (MS 0022).

Overbrook Press (1934-1969)

Overbrook Press was established in 1934 by financier and philanthropist Frank Altschul in a remodeled pigpen on his estate Overbrook Farm, at 356 Riverbank Road in Stamford, Connecticut. Interested in the craft of printing since childhood, Altschul hired Margaret B. Evans as resident designer and compositor; she remained with the press until 1944 and was succeeded by John Lyons. John McNamara served as pressman from 1934 to 1954, followed by Frederick Warns. Between 1934 and 1969, when it issued its last publications, Overbrook Press produced more than 150 limited edition books, pamphlets, and broadsides, plus a wide variety of ephemera, for people, organizations, and events of interest to Altschul, his family, and friends. The press's books regularly won awards for their design and production quality; the texts favored politics, foreign relations, chess, printing, graphic arts, and literature as illustrated by artists including T. M. Cleland, W. A. Dwiggins, William Einstein, Jean Hugo, and Rudolph Ruzicka.

A chronology of the key activities and publications of the Overbrook Press was compiled at the Arts of the Book Collection in 1988; a copy is located in Box 1.

Frank Altschul (1887-1981)

Frank Altschul was born in San Francisco on April 21, 1887, to Charles and Camilla Mandlebaum Altschul; Charles Altschul, an investment banker with the firm Lazard Frères & Company, relocated the family to New York in 1901. Frank Altschul attended Yale University, graduating in 1908, after which he traveled in Europe for two years before returning to New York to start a career in finance with Lazard Frères. He served in the Army in France during World War I, and was awarded the Legion of Honor by the French government. Altschul became a senior partner at Lazard Frères in 1943, and five years later chairman of the board of the General American Investors Corporation. He served on the governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange, was a director of the English-Speaking Union, an officer of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation and the National Planning Association, and was involved with the Council of Foreign Relations for almost forty years. He received honorary degrees from Yale University in 1967 and Columbia University in 1971.

In 1913 Altschul married Helen Lehman Goodhart (1887-1985), a 1907 graduate of Barnard College and a niece of the prominent New York politician Herbert H. Lehman. The Altschuls raised their children Charles, Margaret, Edith, and Arthur at their homes in New York City and at Overbrook Farm, an estate along the Mianus River in Stamford, Connecticut. Edith Altschul (1917-2003) married Robert Claverhouse Graham (1913-1994, Yale 1936), a partner in the James Graham Gallery in New York.

In addition to producing his own, Altschul collected exemplars of fine printing from America and Europe, in particular France. He also formed a library of works related to the typographic arts, including eighteenth- and nineteenth-century printers manuals, type specimens, and bibliographies. His book collections were transferred to Yale University following his death in Stamford on May 29, 1981, where they were divided between the Beinecke Library and the Arts of the Book Collection at Sterling Memorial Library. The equipment from the Overbrook Press was given to Yale University in 1977 by Altschul, and distributed to the Bibliographical Press at Sterling Memorial Library, press rooms in the university's colleges, and other departments on campus.

Scope and Contents

The Overbrook Press Records contain correspondence, office files, and production files documenting the operations and publications of the press. The records also include a small group of Frank Altschul's personal papers, a collection of printed material, mostly ephemera, published by peer presses, professional and private associations and clubs, and a group of type specimens from American and European typesetters. The Production Files form the most significant part of the records, and contain original and carbon typescripts, manuscripts, printed sources or copies of source text, designs and layout pages, dummies, proofs, and galleys; some files hold correspondence, published reviews, and final copies of the publications as well as original artwork, silkscreen stencils, bookbinding stamps, and a collection of paper samples. b. 94	For jobs 160-170. 243	undated

Series VI: Photoengravings and Other Printing Blocks

The series holds a collection of photoengravings and printing blocks used to illustrate and decorate Overbrook Press publications. They were stored in tpestand drawers in the Bibliographic Press room in the basement of Sterling Memorial Library until 2015 when they were boxed for storage and transferred to the Beinecke Library. Proof prints were made at some point in the twentieth century; a binder with those prints can be found in Box 95, and a folder of oversize proof prints is in box 112. The blocks were not grouped by project or in any other order in the drawers, or in their new cartons.
